

Hit by the stupid truck!
Friday September 24, 2010
Breakfast Seminar

SEMINAR DESCRIPTION

As an HR professional or manager have you ever watched in agony as a colleague, agency manager, or employee self-destructs in public from his or her own behavior? We watch the situation go from bad to worse and wonder, "What is this person thinking? Why is this person doing this? Were they hit by the stupid truck?"

In this session, Chief Duyck will delve into the causes that underlie self-destructive conduct and behaviors by individuals that work in the public sector. Using stories of real situations, the Chief will explore the factors that lead people to behaving in a way that contradicts reason and rational thinking. While at times painfully humorous, you will learn to spot at-risk patterns of conduct and gain insight into the difference between a lone event, and symptomatic behaviors.

You will gain insight into how to recognize and successfully deal with irrational behaviors. This is a valuable capability since in the end any self-destructive act by a public employee hurts the organization and the reputation of all of us working in the public sector.

This is a session that you will want to encourage your supervisors to attend with you.

ABOUT THE PRESENTER: Michael R. Duyck, Deputy Fire Chief Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue

Mike Duyck began his fire service career with the City of Lake Oswego, Oregon in 1988. He was hired by Tualatin Valley Fire & Rescue in 1995 as a firefighter, quickly worked his way through the ranks, promoted to Division Chief in 2006 and Assistant Chief in 2008. In July 2009, Chief Duyck assumed the position of TVF&R's Deputy Fire Chief and is now responsible for the administration of TVF&R in the absence of the Fire Chief. Chief Duyck will officially be sworn in as TVF&R/s next Fire Chief on September 1, 2010.

Chief Duyck holds a Bachelor of Sciences Degree in Fire Business Administration and Associate Degrees in Fire Science. He also holds numerous certifications in emergency operations including Oregon Paramedic. He is a member of the Oregon Fire Chiefs' Association and is involved in many local and statewide fire service initiatives including urban renewal, emergency communications and dispatch, intergovernmental affairs, and interoperability.

When not at home with his family on his suburban farm, he enjoys running, camping and coaching his daughters' basketball teams.
